West Hollywood, CA — Perched on a serene West Hollywood knoll—yet surrounded by the robust energy of the city—four newly completed luxury townhouses, listed exclusively with The Agency, become a dynamic setting for Dialogues on the Knoll. A cross-residential exhibition featuring nineteen contemporary artists and curated by Kipton Cronkite, with salon partner Todd Williamson, the exhibition considers how art can ground viewers amid a rapidly changing world. The salon blurs the boundaries between daily living, architecture and art.

Sculpture, sound, light, painting, and functional design converge to explore the delicate balance between rupture and repair, chaos and contemplation. Clay, bronze, stone, pigment, and frequency each become vessels for transformation—holding emotional, ecological, and spiritual memory in their form. Across the exhibition, works surface the rawness of being human while gesturing toward healing, ritual, and inner stillness. Some pieces mirror the turbulence of the collective moment; others offer refuge, sanctuary, or breath.

Together, these works create a living dialogue—an invitation to pause, listen, and inhabit the space between intensity and quiet. On this West Hollywood knoll, the salon becomes both lookout and landing place, where uncertainty and beauty coexist, and where stillness is not the absence of noise, but the presence of awareness.

The exhibition features works by Mark Acetelli, Charles Arnoldi, Kristina Rose Baker, Chaaban Designs, Mads Christensen (Mads Christensen is represented by Timothy Yarger Fine Art / Los Angeles), Christina Craemer, Shane Guffogg, Steve Hash, Alexandria Hilfiger, Caroline P.M. Jones (Caroline PM Jones is represented by Timothy Yarger Fine Art / Los Angeles), David Paul Kay, Brandon Lomax, Leo Marmol, Mohamed Ouedraogo, Theo Pinto, Rotem Reshef, Cybele Rowe, Roxie Sarhangi, and Todd Williamson.

On view through March 8, 2026, the exhibition will be complemented by private sound baths and thoughtfully designed activations. Rooted in the ethos of the salon, these experiences offer moments of grounding and quiet solitude amid the busy holiday season and transition into the new year.

Private walkthroughs are available by appointment.
